Welcome Home

Aquamatters is a unique entity that specializes in anything to do with the aquatic environment. This term covers a wide spectrum of areas ranging from aquaculture to project management. Our goal is to see projects through from start to finish, delivering thus a total package to our clients. Aquamatters is dedicated to the environment, which explains our commitment to using environmental friendly products and supplying the market with fish, and inverts from sustainable sources.

Aquariums & Ponds.

Aquamatters specializes in total concept aquariums, ponds and water features. Great care is taken when it comes to the design of these tailor-made items for our clients. One aspect often overlooked is the suitability of the tank to the actual desired animals. Aquamatters will leave no stone unturned and will endeavour to fulfil all the essential requirements and meet the expectations of the client. Everything is foreseen so that the animal and the owner can both thrive in a unique environment. Our team has more than 20 years of experience in the maintenance of fish and invertebrates. From the biotope aquarium to the fully automated system, 'the world is your oyster'.

Fish & Inverts

Aquamatters works exclusively with sustainable fish and invertebrates suppliers. The benefits to the environment are of course invaluable. Living organisms bred and born in sustainable operations are called domesticated animals and are easier to acclimatize. These 'captive' bred animals are less prone to stress related diseases. For a more accurate overview of all our species and varieties of fish, please download our aquamatters stock list on our website.

Aquaculture

The aquaculture industry and more specifically the LSS technology has evolved at a breath-taking pace. All this know-how is downscaleable but the main arguments must be a good proven record and outstanding reliability. There is more to the eye than a nice design. The latter must ensure easy maintenance, maximum efficiency and the lowest possible running cost. Aquamatters only associates itself with entities on the market that have a proven track record and are leaders in the industry. We are constantly increasing our network of partners who must imperatively meet our high standards. Therefore, we are an official dealer of the Lykkegaard group. This family owned business has been manufacturing pumps and valves for no less than 125 years.
